The Problem of Technology

Does technology have more positive effect or negative effect on the young teenagers? When I was little, people did not use a lot modern technology such as phone, digital camera and TV. People seemed more willing to communicate with each other in person. Nowadays, people seem to be more willing to spend time to surf on the Internet than hanging out with their friends or spending time with their family. Young people seem will be more addicted to phones than they use to be. Therefore, technology makes young people more addicted into it, making them less able to concentrate on their work and more addicted to technology.
